

11.30 am : Visiting the Bayon Temple:

The Bayon is located in the center of the city of Angkor Thom. Bayon was built in late 12th century to early 13th century by the King Jayavarman VII dedicated to Buddhism. Even After this was known, The Bayon was erroneously connected with the city of Yasovarman I and thus dated to the ninth century. A pediment found in 1925 depicting an Avalokiteswara identified the Bayon as a Buddhist Temple. This Discovery moved the date of the monument ahead some 300 years to the late twelfth century.

01.30pm: Lunch will be served at the 'Lotus Dosa Corner'

02.30am : Visiting to BanteaySrei. The Temple is an exquisite miniature, A fairy palace in the heart of an immense and mysterious forest, the very thing that Grimm delighted to imagine, and that every child's heart has yearned after, but which mature years has sadly proved too lovely to be true. And here it is, in the Cambodian forest at Banteay Seri, carved not out of the stuff that dreams are made of, but of solid sandstone. You can see at the third entrance arc where the theKaaraikal Saint image was carved. The Tamil people in India who fondly called the lady of 6th century as 'KaaraikaalAmmaiyaar'. She was travelled all across India to spread the Saivism by upside down by hand only.

Phnom Kulen is considered a holy mountain in Cambodia, of special religious significance to Hindus and Buddhists who come to the mountain in pilgrimage.

The site is known for its carvings representing fertility and its waters which hold special significance to Hindus. Just 5 cm under the water's surface over 1000 small carvings are etched into the sandstone riverbed. The waters are regarded as holy, given that Jayavarman II chose to bathe in the river, and had the river diverted so that the stone bed could be carved. Carvings include a stone representation of the Hindu god Vishnu lying on his serpent Ananta, with his wife Lakshmi at his feet. A lotus flower protrudes from his navel bearing the god Brahma. The river then ends with a waterfall and a pool.
